Year 2000 Edition
Volume 103

From one Millennium to the next...

The 2000 Ravelings staff wanted to show that "Y2K" did not rule the entire world. We decided that if we were going to our roots, we should use the Roman Numeral version on the year 2000. Throughout this book we will look back at a century of change as well as forward to a future of greatness. We will see football teams of old. We will see that Monmouth College had a role in the suffrage movement as well. We hope to make this year's yearbook one that they will talk about for the next millennium. So welcome to the 2000 Ravelings, Vol. 103...

Fall Events

As with all college students, my first day was extremely hectic. We left the house at 7:30 a.m. and arrived here at 10:30. We started out by registering me for my classes and paying the balance on the bill. Then we started the moving in process. I thought that it was great that they had the older students helping us move in so that we did not have to climb the stairs as much.

After I moved in, there was some time to unpack until I had to attend the matriculation ceremony. All of us were with our Freshman Seminar class for the ceremony, which went very well, except for the heat. My parents left after the ceremony and then it was off to meet everyone in my hall.

The next day began with breakfast and then there were sessions that we had to attend. We learned about the library and how to use the computers. These sessions lasted for about 45 minutes apiece and there were groups going all day. At 11 a.m. there was "Play Fair" where we got to know all of the other freshmen on campus. I thought that this was very interesting and met people that I never would have.

There were many other things going on around campus that kept us busy and away from being homesick. One of the things I thought was best was the Freshman Walkout, and I will remember that as one of the best moments of my orientation weekend.

ORIENTATION LEADERS

Get the Job Done!

Orientation leaders began their year back on campus Tuesday, Aug. 24, 1999. Four days of full of activities followed until Saturday morning when new students began to arrive. Orientation leaders' first duties of the weekend were to help students get moved in. From then on, Orientation leaders had their groups on a tightly packed schedule of events, such as the Ice Cream Social and Welcome Back Dance. The last activity of the weekend was the Walk-out Monday afternoon. For the Orientation leaders, some of their favorite events were dorm-storming to wake up new students for PlayFair. PlayFair was also a favorite of the Orientation leaders because it was high energy activities and it allowed people to meet others they might never get to know. Orientation Weekend is one of the most high-impact, fun filled weekends that one will experience at Monmouth College, and this year was no different than any other.

MC IS Y2K RA READY!

The 1999-2000 residence life staff kicked off the new school year with a fun-filled training program. This year's program included exciting speakers, fun activities, and tons of games! The different staffs strutted their stuff at roll call, worked together as a team to create a list of goals to meet throughout the year, and got to know both each other, and everyone else, in this week-long extravaganza.

Everyone took a lot out of the experience. The new staff members learned about programming, team building, and health issues, and the returning staff members were eager to help out and even learn a few things along the way. Everyone had a ball and learned a lot this year, and they are all looking forward to their second training session at the start of next semester.

Beautiful weather was one of the many highlights of Family Weekend this year. There was much for families to do, including getting to watch Austin Powers: The Spy who Shagged Me. On Saturday there was sumo-wrestling to take part in, cotton candy to eat, and a football game against the Beloit Buccaneers to cheer at. Rondell Sheridan performed in the Auditorium for anyone who wanted a good laugh on Saturday night.

Jenni Nendza, freshman, recalls her favorite moment of Family Weekend: "I missed driving so much that I was telling my parents that I was going to take off in their car. They didn't believe me until I did actually leave with it on Sunday morning and took a drive around Monmouth."

Family Weekend was a great opportunity to allow parents and other family members to see how well new students were adjusting and for returning families to see new changes on the campus.

A bonfire, parade, football game, and lots of alumni only mean one thing... Homecoming 1999. This year MC got into the spirit of things with a "Game Show" theme. From Press Your Luck to Singled Out, the theme was alive and well on campus. Friday kicked off the weekend festivities with the banner contest and later that night the annual bonfire. Mary MacMillian and John Carruthers were announced King and Queen. The parade was held on Saturday morning with the football game that afternoon. The Fighting Scots took on the Carroll College Pioneers. The weekend was filled with alumni activities, including installation of alumni into the M Club. Jay Dickerson recalls his memory of being nominated for Homecoming King,

"It was a once in a lifetime event. I am glad my fellow students nominated me for such a fantastic honor!"

For some MC students it was their last Homecoming here as a student. For others it was their first, but Homecoming 99 is one memory that people won't forget for a long time.

Dark Of the Moon...

Ah, fall. The leaves are changing colors, the winds blow cooler, and the witches come out to...yes witches. Terror was in the air as the cast and crew of the 1999 fall play, "Dark of the Moon," prepared for opening night. The play was performed Oct. 29-31 in the Wells Theater and drew quite a crowd for each of its shows.

"I think it was a very good idea to do the show over Halloween," said Megan Griffith, who played the Dark Witch in the show. "It seemed to attract more folks to see the show because of its spooky theme. Plus alot of the cast wore crazy costumes so we were all set to go trick-or-treating after the Sunday performance."

The play, done at Monmouth College once before in 1973, is about a witchboy, John, played by Tom Scott, who wants to become human after falling for a pretty blonde-haired girl, Barbara Allen, played by Kelly Knutsen. The cast was made up of more than 25 people and even included a member of the original cast of the production in 1973. Genevieve Ball, a towns person in this year's performance, played Mrs. Allen (Barbara's mother) her first time in the show.

"It was very cool(to have her in the show)! Gen was so cute, and I think she really enjoyed the show again," said Griffith. "She is a very nice lady and it was a pleasure working with her. I hope they'll let me come back and be in shows 20 years from now too."

Two of the cast members received ACTF Irene Ryan nominations for their performances. Both John Stevens and Geoff Edwards were awarded nominations. All in all the show was a success and was a highlight of the many fall activities on campus this year.

Three one-acts directed by senior Shannon Smith featured as a dinner theater in Scotland Yard

In early November, Monmouth College theater patrons were treated to a dinner theater in Scotland Yard where senior Shannon Smith directed three one-act plays by playwright David Ives.

According to Smith, directing the one-acts was his "largest project to ever take on."

The first play, "Foreplay, or the Art of Fugue," dealt with the life a young man, Chuck, who was represented on three separate dates with three separate women. Deja vu occurred on the miniature golf course with an added sexual twist.

The next one-act was "Words, Words, Words," which was, says Smith, a "playful bit with three entertaining monkeys. As the story went, the chimps were brought together to perform in the Rosenbaum Experiment--an idea where if you take any three people eventually they will quote Shakespeare's Hamlet!"

Finally, Ives' "Sure Thing" was performed. The broken one-act is about those things to say and those things not to say when first meeting someone. Smith concludes: "If life could be so easy as to just go back and redo certain statements, we might like each other so much more."

Megan Diemer and Jay Dickerson act out some of the rituals involved with dating in this scene from the fall dinner theater.

WOMEN'S VOLLEYBALL

Coming in with confidence was a characteristic of this year's team. However, throughout the season the girls played as if they were on a roller coaster, with many ups as well as downs. Through the combination of all ages, the girls found themselves with depth and potential. Serving as captains were seniors Wendy Erlandson, Stacey Kreps, and Cindy Erlandson, as well as sophomore Jaime Jones. The girls finished the season with a disappointing showing at the conference tournament and an overall season record of 19 wins and 13 losses. One of the goals accomplished was winning the Monmouth Invitational.

A disappointment of the season was the cancellation of the planned trip to West Palm Beach, Florida, over fall break due to the existence of Hurricane Irene.

The team was very proud to hear of two selections from this year's team named to all-conference teams. Sophomore Jaime Jones was picked as a first team selection for the second straight year, while Junior Abby Pollentier made her first appearance on the all-conference team as she was picked as a member of the second team.

"Although we may not have played as well as we wanted and met all the expectations we had before us, I think we made many memories and those memories will never be forgotten," concludes senior Wendy Erlandson.

CROSS COUNTRY

Both men and women Cross Country teams had a great year. Most of the team made personal goals and obtained personal goals later on in the season. This was due to the support and help given by Coach Dan Schisler, a former Monmouth College runner.

It was mutual for both teams to have liked to see higher placing at the conference meet. The women placed ninth and the men placed fifth overall. The women were led by Ann Moody, a senior who placed twenty-sixth among competitors. Tony Miles led the men team by placing twelfth and earning an All-Conference title.

"Both teams did a wonderful job this year. I can't wait to see how much we can do next year. There are only five seniors graduating. This will leave us with a strong core on both ends of the men's and women's team," says Tony Miles.

Men's Soccer

The Monmouth College soccer season can not be summed up in one word or even in one phrase. If you look at the record of 6-8-0 overall and 4-5-0 conference, disappointing is a word that may come to mind. Just by looking at the record though, one can not be given a clearer view at the actually productive season that took place this year. In only two games did the team loose by more than two goals. The team could come together and really play when they needed to be tough. The Knox game is a true example. "Beating Knox was a goal chosen by the team at the beginning of the season and knowing that I could take part in helping my team to achieve such a memorable goal was great," describes Zach Hampson, a freshman forward who was the lone goal scorer in the game. The game was a perfect description of the fall season. The soccer team had the ability and talent to win almost every game but they had to put their whole heart and soul on the line to accomplish the task. The team seemed to fall short of this on more than one occasion to make the season not so memorable.

Women's Soccer

Soccer women makes huge steps

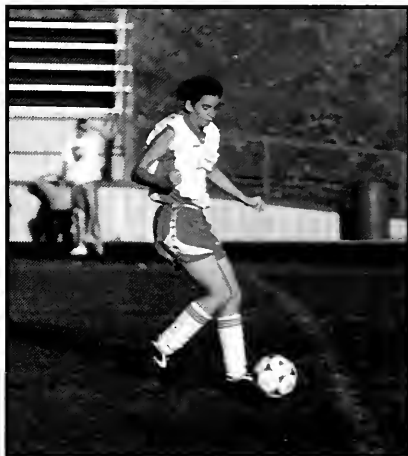

by: Anna Schlemmer and Jill Heneghan

The 1999 Women's soccer season had many high points. On a weekend trip away in Wisconsin, the women's soccer team defeated both Ripon on Saturday, and the undefeated defending conference champs, Carroll College. This year saw many seniors take charge of the field. Midfielder Jill Heneghan and defender Anna Schlemmer were co-captains this year. Said Heneghan, "We had high expectation this year and we are building on those expectations to do better in the future."

The team grew stronger as a whole this year, making the team a more intense team to play against. The women hope that the opening of their own soccer field will help them become a force to be reckoned with in the Midwest Conference.

Women's golf made a return to Monmouth College after a decade of being gone. The women had a premiere season in which they captured two tournament titles. The team had victories at both the Fighting Scot Invitational and Scott Community College Invitational. Other highlights included winning both the Augustana and MacMurray Duals. Senior member, Heidi Gengenbacher, was named All-Conference by league coaches.

This year the team was coached by Michael Olson and assisted by Travis Willeford. Next year, Bill Turner will take on the position as coach while Coach Olson returns to a coaching position in football. A much anticipated second season back to the college is awaited. Molly McNamara, who was named Best Freshman this year, says, "I am looking forward to next year with a new group of girls who will be playing with our core members that we have remaining."

Fighting Football

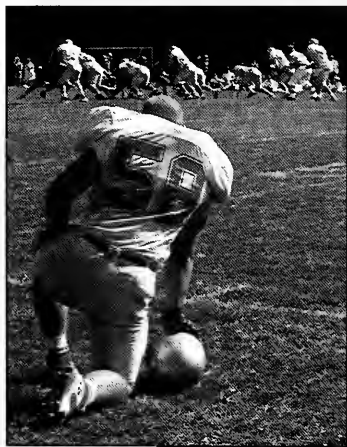

End of an Era

By: Aaron Cluka

The 1999 Fighting Scots Football season was its ups and downs. Sporting a 2-8 record for the fourth straight year, the numbers hardly reflected how hard our Fighting Scots played on the field. Senior Andrew Kra made the school record in receiving 7 yards for the year and closed his career at Monmouth with 1677 yards, also a school record. With the close of the season came the most definitive game of the year—the legendary Turkey Bowl game against Knox. In what would be Coach Kelly Kane's last game as head coach, the Scots defeated the Prairie View by a mere one point, bringing the bronze Turkey back home, and evening the series at 50-50-10. With Kelly Kane leaving after 16 years as head coach, the Scots look to the future of the program and a lot more great games to come.

This is Only the Beginning

By: Kristina Jozwiak

The football season for the cheerleaders started in the summer as the girls practiced technique, stunting, and dancing. For the first time, the cheerleaders had a real coach who would expect nothing less than hard work, perseverance, dedication, and discipline. Coach Lina Norman pushed 14 girls to the limit to produce a successful season.

The girls usually practiced four days a week and were required to lift three days a week. MC defensive tackle Jason Wheat lifted during some of the cheerleading practices and said, "The cheerleaders are much improved this year. They have been the most supportive cheerleaders I have seen in all four years that I have been here. They are exceptionally good."

Coach Norman wrapped up the season by explaining, "This is a good start to building a successful program for the future. I think visible changes are seen among the faculty and students. The positive comments from the spectators were greatly appreciated, and we look forward to building our skills and the program for both basketball seasons and next year. We truly appreciate the participation and support from the student body."

Kate Blinstrup is talking to the children about the play.

In an Age of television and movies, it becomes increasingly harder to generate the desire in children to see live theatre. Plays such as "Island of the Blue Dolphins" and "Pinocchio" are competing with "Pokemon" and "Rugrats: The Movie." It's easier and more affordable to rent "Pinocchio" from Family Video instead of going to see a live performance. But the connection between the television set and a child is totally unlike the connection that happens in a live performance. Unfortunately, when parents do decide to spend the money for pricey theatre tickets, they end up with shows that have been "Disney-ficated" and leave no room for the growing imagination of children.

"Rumpelstiltskin" offers both a live audience connection and an opportunity to exercise the imagination. With limited set pieces, simple costumes, and a bunch of creativity from the audience and cast, "Rumpelstiltskin" turned into a great play.

February: Comedy Month had a great lineup for the month of laughter. This year's Comedy Blast Committee was headed by senior Kezia Scott. Comedian Eric O'Shea kicked off the first week of Comedy Month. Eric's act was hilarious and gave MC students a good idea what to expect for the rest of the month. Diane Alimo was the second comedian to be showcased at Comedy Month, followed by Bobby Lee. The finale was a comedy group from Chicago, The Elevated. FEVER

Hay Fever was written and first produced seventy-five years ago. It is a delightful satire of theatrical life. Coward's chronicle of the outrageous Blisses and their unsuspecting guest still has much to say to us today. Theater is a beautiful art but Coward recognized what can happen if it is taken too far. As Sorel Bliss says, "Her sense of theatre is always fatal."

Hay Fever was directed by senior Jill Scott. With only a little over a month of practice, the cast and director pulled off a very successful play and opened the way for more seniors for the future to direct their own plays.

Shooting for 2000

The Lady Scots basketball team had a successful year with most of the team returning from the previous year and with great incoming freshman group. Together the team worked as one and came out ending the season with a record of 12-10.

While every player has their own memory of the season, freshman Kara Kuhrts recalls her first game as a new member of the Lady Scots basketball team. "Well, my first game was at Carthage. I was really nervous, but the team played together and we won my first game as a new member." All teammates recall each of their favorite games, but the crowd will never forget the game against Illinois College. It was a game that came down to the last few shots which left the audience on the edge of their seats. Freshman Melissa Jones recalls the afternoon: "It was an intense game. We didn't play as well as we should have, but we pulled it together and pulled through until the end." The season was full of intensity from game to game, but with hard work and determination, the Lady Scots came out on top.

The 1999-2000 men's basketball season had its ups and downs. On the up side of the stick was Coach Terry Glasgow's 400th win. The crowd cheered and the coach received a commemorative ball in his honor. Also, the Scots played against some tough teams throughout the year. The big game against Grinnell ended in a 150-145 loss. Even with the loss, Kent Frobe, Jeff Stenoish, and Dan Mahoney played fantastic games. The team overall improved and losing only a couple of seniors will make Monmouth a serious contender for the 2000-2001 school year. Kent Frobe, a senior, set an all-time free-throw accuracy record of 88.1 percent, beating the previous record of 87.9 set back in 1955. The Scots have a lot to look forward to, and a lot to look back on for inspiration, dedication, and of course the love of the sport.

Fact: Terry Glasgow, coach of the Monmouth College Scots, in 28 seasons, has massed a 408-221 record. He is one of the top 50 active coaches in the country. The 1999-2000 Scots led him to his 400th win.

DANCE FEVER

The 1999-2000 Monmouth College Dance Team impressed the crowd and showed a lot of enthusiasm overall.

The women kicked off their year by performing at the Homecoming Bonfire in October. The dancers performed a variety of styles, including routines to "Ladies Night" and "Hit Me Baby." Choreographed, directed, and coached by themselves, the dance team proved to be one more asset to Monmouth College athletics. Captains for the year were Traci Brackett and Heather Hayden. These seniors organized many things, including a fund-raising dance clinic opened to young girls in the whole community. Some of the young dancers who attended the day-long workshop performed at a women's basketball game with the dance team.

The fifteen-member squad danced at nine women's and men's games.

"I find it enjoyable to dance not only at the men's games but also at women's to show we support the campus more than a typical dance team," says Traci Brackett. Overall the dance team was happy with their performances. Freshman member Annie Muehlheausler admits, "I am looking forward to next year to perform more crowd-pleasing routines."

Under the direction of the new head coach, Linda Norman, the Monmouth College cheerleading squad has completed a successful basketball season. The squad of eleven girls began a weight-training program to build up endurance and strength for the strenuous routines that Coach Norman had in mind. Sophomore Angela Reiner said, "Coach wanted us to get in competition form so that we could see how much effort went into preparing for games outside of practice."

The cheerleaders attended all home games and even traveled to the away game at Knox. The winter's hard work all led up to the final game versus MC rival Knox. Kala Felisiak was quoted, "Crowd response has always played a major role in our enthusiasm. The night of the Monmouth-Knox game, the football team was presented the Turkey so our fans were in the spirit to get up and cheer with us."

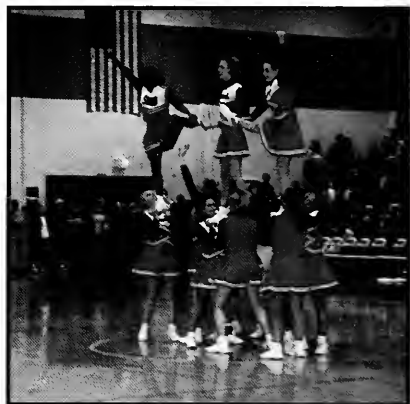

Sometimes the hard work the squad puts into preparing for the games goes unrecognized, and it's hard to judge how far you've come. As MC cheerleading continues to develop its program under the direction of Linda Norman, it will soon be impossible to deny the talent and determination that makes up a cheerleader.

Indoor Track

Monmouth College indoor track had an exciting season to be proud of. At an indoor conference on March 3 -4, the men's and women's teams took it upon themselves to create some outstanding achievements. Constance Jackson led her team to a school record in points scored at a conference meet (163), while junior Eric Holmes broke the conference record for the shot put. David Hodge battled competition and won both the long and triple jumps at the meet. The meet also was the place that qualified Constance Jackson (400, long jump), Eric Holmes (shot) and Scott Stanton (55 hurdles) for nationals at Illinois Wesleyan University. Holmes and Jackson fell short of the finals while Stanton took the final qualifying spot advancing to the finals with a preliminary time of 7.73. Stanton finished eighth improving to 7.72.

After all the hype of the year 2000 and the Y2K bug we decided to ask students and staff the question "How did you ring in 2000?" To this question we got a variety of responses some of which we placed above. Other responses were babysitting, going out with friends, or working. Although the official millennium does not actually start until 2001, many people took this opportunity to party and have a great time. I heard many people worried about the Y2K bug but as we all know, no major disaster came from it. Will next year be as big of an excitement? That is something that we will have to wait until December 31, 2000 to find out.

SCOTTY

The votes are in and it's finally time to introduce the "much-awaited" name for our Hewes Library pig. "Scotty" received the most votes of the seven possible names presented on a slate to the Monmouth College community the first of March. "Scotty" barely beat out "Babe, Queen of Scots" in the balloting. So, with the advent of National Library Week, April 9-15, and after an absence of three weeks, Scotty reassumed his place of distinction in front of the stairwell in Hewes Library.

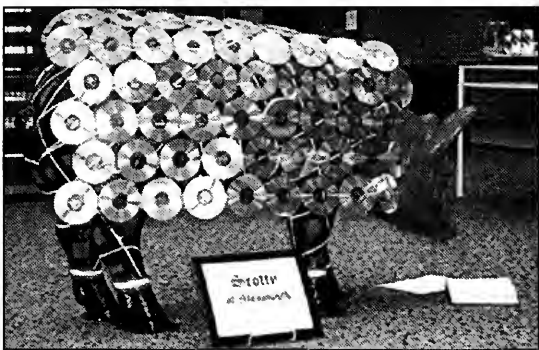

Scotty has been designed with a Scottish theme by artist and Monmouth College lecturer, Mary Phillips. Phillips designed Scotty with her own version of the Monmouth College tartan. "If you've ever tried to paint a square pattern over a contoured surface such as Scotty had to offer, then you'll know that it's impossible to maintain the plaids in perfectly formed squares...so you go with the form.

With assistance from her husband, Rick Sayre, director of Hewes Library, the fiberglass pig was painted with cherry red and black spray paint with masking tape used at different stages to create the plaid design. "We decided not to get too elaborate with the plaid for two reasons--1) to allow for the distinct pattern to be seen from a distance, and 2) to maintain our sanity."

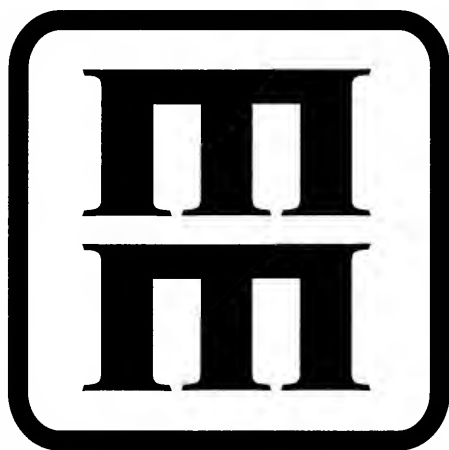

Scotty does come with a few accessory items. Provided by the Monmouth College Highlanders, Scotty has his own kilt, jacket, and scarf, for formal piping occasions. The Hewes Library staff has also provided Scotty with a blanket of reflective outdated CD-ROMs. "While European warriors of medieval times wore a protective coat of chain mail, we decided that our contemporary Scotty would be best served with his own coat of e-mail," jokes Sayre. "Scotty may change over time. In fact, he may just be a work in progress!"

Scotty will remain at Hewes Library at least until the fall as part of the Alliance Library System's Partners in a Great System (PIGS) promotional. Over 150 fiberglass pigs will be on display in libraries and businesses across western Illinois in this promotional campaign patterned after the highly successful fiberglass "Cows" exhibition in Chicago last summer.

Thanks to Rick Sayre for the article and photos!!

ASB
East Saint Louis

Into one Monmouth College van and one small car piled a group of twelve MC students and all of their belongings. After a cramped ride, a week of difficult but meaningful work followed.

Known as Alternative Spring Break (ASB), the group, led by Chris McRoberts, coordinator of Greek Life, volunteered their week off to travel to southern Illinois. The group did work to improve the city of East Saint Louis, particularly the Emerson Park neighborhood.

Every morning members awoke early from the church that they were staying in neighboring Belleville, Illinois, and loaded into the school van to travel to the Emerson Park neighborhood of East Saint Louis.

On Monday, March 13, the group of ASB students were introduced to Youth Build, a group of young people who have dropped out of high school. Members of Youth Build were attempting to earn their G.E.D.s and also receive skills that would help them throughout life. MC students also handed out flyers for the town meeting taking place on Wednesday, March 15. Tuesday and Wednesday, March 14 and 15, proved to be the work days for the group. Working alongside members of Youth Build, the MC students cleared an abandoned house, its lot, and two other lots.

For the rest of the week, the group handed out flyers and participated in office work to help promote Emerson Park's Smoke Out, the kickoff for a project aimed at neighborhood betterment. There was also some time left over for ASB students to visit the Saint Louis Zoo and the Saint Louis Museum of Art, and dine out.

At the week's end, the group had learned many things about East Saint Louis, themselves, and others. The trip proved to be beneficial because those attending were from different backgrounds and brought unique experiences for all to share.

THE MERRY WIVES OF.... WINDSOR

How often do you see it when students get the professor back? Main male lead professor Bill Wallace struts his stuff on the stage as Sir John Falstaff. Several of the actors were glad to give a friendly jab or two at the guy.

The Merry Wives of Windsor is the only comedy that Shakespeare set in an Elizabethan town. In the late 1500s, Windsor was a bucolic hamlet just outside London. Its main claim to fame then and now was Windsor Castle, which has housed members of the British Royal Family for over 850 years. One of the theories about the creation of the play is that it was written quickly in response to a request from Elizabeth I, who wished to see Falstaff in love. This is belied in the script itself, as Falstaff is not so much in love than in financial straits and simply using the feigning of love in an attempt to resupply his rapidly shrinking purse. Bill Wallace took on the part of the "Mature Man" of Sir John Falstaff. The show was a rousing success and everything to the background music to the excellent set design made the audience become intently involved. This show was the final hurrah for several of Monmouth College students. Kristen Witt, K. Jill Scott, Jon Stevens, Shannon Smith, and Alex Lovell-Troy made their last appearance on a major Monmouth College production as students. Farewell and good luck seniors!

Chorale Tour 2000

The Chorale at their Tour Homecoming concert in March of 2000. Dr. Perry White is conducting the group for the second year.

What in the Heck is Chorale???

Well, First Chorale is not a place where they keep horses.... Chorale is an a capella singing group that has been brought back to campus by Dr. Perry White. For the last two years, MC Chorale has been becoming a group known on campus for the different types of music they sing. These songs range from Early Renaissance (Think Chant like music) to 20th Century Choral Music (Which means LOTS of weird stuff) this type of Variety makes MC Chorale a very interesting singing group. The 31 member choir hopes to continue with the new tradition and make the Chorale even better in the future.

Monmouth College Chorale went on their annual tour during spring break. The Chorale went to the following tour dates; Webster Grove, Mo.; Hot Springs, Ark.; Morgan City, La.; Carrollton, Tx.; Longview, Tx.; Oklahoma City, Ok.; Independence, Ks.; and Kansas City, Ks. Along the way, the Chorale did more than just sing. In Louisiana, they went on a "Cajun man's" swamp tour, where they saw many alligators. For the rest of the tour, the Chorale referred to themselves as the "Choral-agators." The Chorale sang in many different types of churches along the way, from an old cathedral to a church that was a car dealership. The experiences and memories gained on the trip will be priceless. And, oh yes, remember the Dixie Chicks Love Fast food.

Wind Ensemble is a music group on campus. They had a busy year this year, with premiering "Ode to Trains" which was composed by a Monmouth College graduate, and performing this spring in a concert where they featured various senior talents. The group is lead by Jim Betts and the group is open to the community as well as the student body. The range of music they play is very interesting.

John Grahe participates in the activities and shows his strength.

This year, Scots Day returned to its roots with Monmouth College's own version of Scottish activities and games. Ceilidh Eve was held the night before with performances from Anvil Head, El Loco Quart'eto, Three, and the Olson Brothers. Ceilidh itself featured a softball tournament, Honors Convocation, and the Flatland Games. Flatland Games featured such activities as Caber Toss, Hammer Throw, Stone Put, Weight Throw, and Weight Toss that were variations of true Highland Games. Ceilidh ended with MocTails on Liedman Lawn and performances from MC musical groups. The last event of the day was a performance by the band, Blue Ash Ink.

Major Works Concert

Brahms Liebeslieder Waltzes

The Concert Choir and Chorale ready to sing some Liebeslieder!

Sound of Five: Where do we go from here?

By: Aaron Cluka

Sound of Five, a music group that has had a 31 year tradition, ended with a performance during the Major Works concert with the Conducting Choir. Next year, a new group will be coming to campus. This new group is called the Chamber Choir. This choir will consist of 8 to 12 students singing a large variety of music. Being a part of Sound of 5 this past year, I have found that as great Sound of 5 is, Chamber Choir will be better. Imagine adding up to 6 new people to share in the experience of singing challenging music. This group will help both Concert Choir and Chorale to achieve new heights and become a better group itself. I am not upset Sound of Five is taking a hiatus. I am glad and proud that I could be a part of a 31 year tradition. I am also glad and proud that a new group with a lot more opportunity is coming to campus and making Monmouth College known for their musical excellence. Sound of 5 is passing the torch to Chamber Choir, a new group for the new millennium.

The 1999-2000 choir season concluded with a big flourish as usual. This year both Chorale and Concert Choir combined forces to sing 16 of Brahms' Liebeslieder (Or "love song") Waltzes. Also this year, Sound of 5 with the conducting class sang 6 Brahms Folk Songs, and one part song. For the seven conducting students, this was the big moment. They had studied all semester and each had to conduct one song for their final. After they were finished with the Acapella singing, the 70+ Combined Choir took the stage and began their singing. Professor Sproston and Sophomore Rebecca Disrud accompanied the singers. It was a lovely performance, and even though the liebeslieder was entirely in German, the sound of the music left a smile on your face.

Diane Severns, Becky Harger, Kate Pearce, Becky Leiser, and Kristen Witt as the "Momma Altos" of Chorale singing their hearts out. The four other "Momma Altos", Jamie Ramdsen, Danica Winters, Abby Mahrt, and Meg Welchans, could not be in the picture, but were still singing!

Crystal Clear

Directed by: Katie Sydney

Director's Note: I have always thought love to be the most powerful of all emotions. It is under this one pure feeling that all other emotions flow. And though you can love someone with every piece of your being, sometimes it is not enough.

This is the climax from a five part theme show whose themes center around love, dependence, and understanding by Phil Young. It has been a joy to work with these two budding actors and I have been and continue to be quite thrilled to watch them grow as actors through this piece and as characters in the show.

This year, four students directed a one act play for the requirements of Cata 377- Stage Acting. The One Acts included Crystal Clear, about two blind people coping with love. The Bear, which gives the question of where Anger ends and love begins. When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet, a funny one act portraying what would happen when Shakespeare's leading ladies were at the same place and time. And a one act written and directed by a Monmouth College student. On the surface was a comedy one act written by Matt Fotis. All the shows were great this year and the acting was superb. These were the final performances of the 1999-2000 Monmouth College Theater Season and this year has been a phenomenal success.

The Brute is a farce set in 19th Century Russia that demonstrates how thin a line there often is between love and loathing. This play was directed by Senior Jon Stevens and the performances of the actors in this one act were phenomenal. The play mixed drama with clever metaphors to convey the story to the audience.

When Shakespeare's Ladies Meet is an enjoyable romp through the world of William Shakespeare. The audience members were not discouraged if they were not well versed in the Shakespearean tongue. The play focuses on love and relationships from the female point of view, a powerful and intriguing theme in any time period. The six actresses were outstanding in their roles as various leading ladies of Shakespeare's plays. Each had their unique qualities that set them apart from the other women. The director for this one act was Megan Griffith.

On The Surface is an original play written and produced by Matt Fotis. It made its world premiere on the Monmouth College stage. The play explores the current state of the American family by looking into their interactions of a family throughout the course of their evening meal.

The play went as a success and the actors and actresses were well suited for their roles. Hilarity ensued and closed out the One Acts of 2000.

BASEBALL

Casey Boydston stands ready for the pitch.

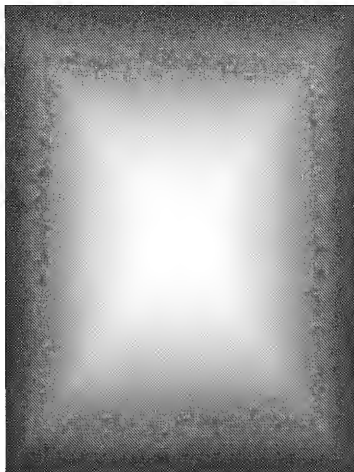

The Glasgow family stands next to the field which bears the family name.

Monmouth College baseball officially returned to campus playing home games rather than being in Galesburg with the new Glasgow field. Led by a co-player of the year, the Monmouth College Fighting Scots placed eight players on the Midwest conference All-South Division first team and added another on the four man honorable mention unit.

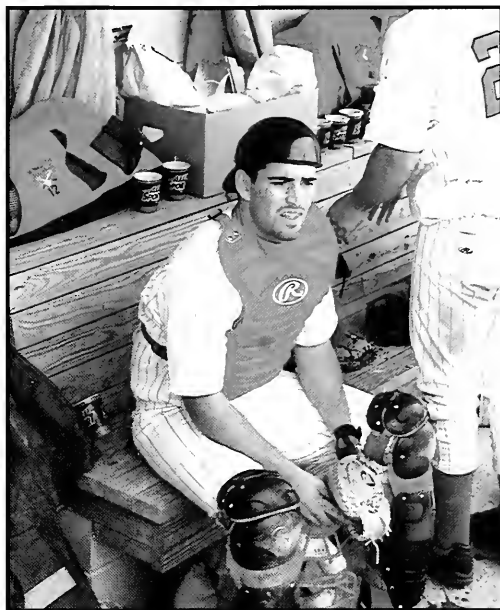

Shortstop Casey Boydston led MWC in steals and established several new school records, shared the division Player of the Year with a member of the Grinnell team. Boydston led the team in eight categories, including games played (school record 35), at bats (school record 141), hits (school record 54), runs (36), doubles (11), triples (3), average (.383), and stolen bases (school record 22). Practically all of Monmouth's starting lineup made the All-Star squad, including Taylor Thiel, Kevin Clarey, Jim Starceвич, Steve Glasgow, Ryan Johnson, and Beau Hellman. Shawn Hickey received an honorable mention.

Glasgow led the MWC in hitting during the 12-game season, batting .488, while Starceвич was third at .464. Larkins' five home runs ranked fourth in the league, and as pitcher, he was second ERA at 2.25. Hellman was 3-0 with a 2.67 ERA, both which ranked fourth, while Johnson had the league's fifth best ERA at 2.70.

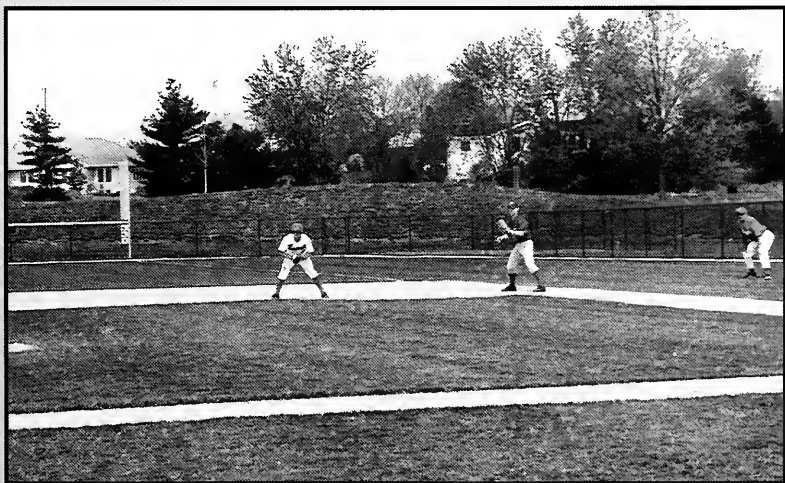

Coaches, players, and onlookers listen to the dedication ceremony of Glasgow field.

Softball

The women of Monmouth College's softball diamond had a phenomenal season. This year's captains were the two seniors on the team, Natalie Hacker and Krista Gavliniski. The softball team had an overall record of 19-15, which also tied a previous college record for most wins in a season. The team set a new school record of an eleven winning game, when the previous had been nine. The softball team went 8-0 in conference play. Monmouth College hosted the conference tourney in which the women placed third. Over spring break the team went to Florida to play against other colleges. MC's record there was 4-5. Personal highlights were Jody Schaill and Jen Witmer were both named South Division Players of the Week.

Junior Sandy Ryner is looking ahead after a great season to next year. "We are losing one starter, so the team will still be very strong and we are expected to win the South Division."

Right: Jessica Puntoni prepares to catch any hits headed in her direction.

Track

The outdoor season began fresh off two regained indoor Conference championships. Visions of a repeat of this feat danced in their heads (among other goals). On their side was the fact that the last time a team who captured the indoor championship did not become team champ for outdoor was back in 1994. The team also realized that Carroll would put up a good fight to defend their championships.

It wasn't until the second meet of the year that the Scots began achieving some of the goals besides a championship regained. Beginning a streak that would near a list of ten events, sophomore Scott Stanton qualified provisionally in the 110 high hurdles and by the end of the season had qualified automatically. Junior Constance Jackson earned her spot outright at Wash U. and also improved her 200 meter dash time to where she ranked fifth in the country (at the time of printing). Jackson also bettered the provisional mark in the 100 at the Dick Young Classic at Grinnell.

Other qualifiers during the season included Justin Bryant (automatic in the 200, provisional in the 100), Cort Mills (who was All-American in the high jump last year), Eric Holmes (provisional in shot put), and Jill Hoops (provisional in the 400 hurdles). The women's 4x100 (Hoops, Jackson, Moredock, and Kuhrts) also qualified provisionally.

Other goals achieved by the team were the numerous personal and few school records broken. Jackson lowered the school's 200 record to 24.51. She was also a member of the 4x400 relay team which broke the record as they qualified for nationals (3:55.35).

As the season wound to a close, the Scots found themselves facing a stronger fight from Carroll than they'd expected. And the pouring rain and high winds made it an interesting weekend for all teams. Those who were not mentally tough enough to withstand the weather found themselves being overtaken by those who were. In the end, it was close. Awesome performances by Jackson and Holmes served for a starting point. It was enough for the women who overcame Carroll by 2.5 points winning the team championship and who had the only broken record at the meet (4x400 relay team of Moredock, Hoops, Estes, and Jackson).

The results were mixed for the men. Some had great performances by several athletes who stepped up, but they weren't without mistakes. An emotional and somewhat hard fought weekend ended with the men losing the championship by one point to Carroll.

"We have made some strides this year toward being the kind of team that I hope we can be," commented Coach Roger Haynes. All that is left, according to him, is bringing together the following--challenging at conference and nationals, working a little harder, and having a little bit more fun. "Those things coming together make coaches and athletes more happy," said Haynes.

The game the Scottish invented comes back to Monmouth

It has been nearly ten years since the Monmouth College Fighting Scots took to the links to play the game that was invented by the Scots...golf. Golf at Monmouth College has a long history. Being the team to beat in the late 70s and early 80s, it was strange that it disappeared so suddenly.

Maybe it was so that we could let our competition catch up. The Scots returned to the links in 1992, but only lasted one season. Now with the letting go of wrestling, both men's and women's golf came back to Monmouth College. This year was an exciting year for the linksters. Finishing second in the conference after a 10 year hiatus is no small feat. Be on the lookout for the Scots with clubs....irons and drivers that is. Monmouth College will be on a rampage and will bring back its former glory to the ancient game the Scots made up. Maybe it's destiny.

Alpha Xi Delta

Nicole Thirlwall paints a boy's face at the Warren County Library.

Alpha Xi Delta was founded at Lombard College on April 17, 1893 by ten women searching for a unique blend of sisterhood and friendship. This foundation is felt and seen in the Beta Epsilon chapter, which recolonized at Monmouth College in 1997. In three years, the chapter has grown and flourished with the assistance of its outstanding members. The chapter was named either first or second in grade point averages for the last three semesters. This year the chapter was also honored at the Greek Week Banquet for its involvement in community service. They held their annual Big Band Benefit concert with proceeds going to the Monmouth Park Program and the Jamieson Center for the Harding After-School Program. Every week the members participated in readings and puppet shows with the children at the Warren County Library. Alpha Xi Delta has strived for excellence in all aspects of campus life and achieved strength beyond the bonds of sisterhood.

Pi Beta Phi

Rosemary Lai takes a picture with her third grade pen pal. At the end of the year, Pi Phis went to the Harding Elementary School to deliver cookies, letters, and meet their pen pals for the first time.

On April 28, 1867, the first national fraternity for women was founded at Monmouth College and was called I.C. Sorosis. In 1888, I.C. Sorosis was officially changed to Pi Beta Phi. Founder Fannie Whitenack Libbey stated that Pi Beta Phi is "a tie that will bind you close together and be an inspiration to each of you to achieve the highest and best in life."

Today the fraternity has over 130 chapters in America and Canada, and supports national philanthropies called Links To Literacy and Arrowmont. To support these philanthropies, that chapter has fund-raisers throughout the year and visits the Monmouth Library to read to children. This year, Pi Phi's sold the "Real Men Wear Kilts" homecoming shirts, and raffled off a dinner to the Barnstormer and a teddy bear from Maple City Candy Company. In addition, the chapter began a pen pal program with third and fourth graders at Harding Elementary School.

The tradition continues from founder Rose Moore's words to "give all that you are and have, and this consecration will restore all that has been lost to you, to others, and the world--forevermore."

Commencement 2000

Receiving an honorary degree and serving as the commencement speaker for the graduating class of 2000 was The Hon. George H.W. Bush, former president of the United States. President Bush was asked to come to Monmouth by alumnus James Pate, CEO of Pennzoil-Quaker State.

The Honorable George H.W. Bush

George Bush was elected president of the United States on Nov. 8, 1988 and served until Jan. 20, 1993. During his term in office, freedom prevailed in the Cold War; the threat of nuclear war was drastically reduced; the Soviet Union imploded and was replaced by a democratic Russia; the Berlin Wall fell, and Germany reunified; and an unprecedented international coalition force liberated Kuwait from Iraq--paving the way for Israel and her Arab neighbors to begin anew their quest for peace in the Middle East.

Mr. Bush was the first sitting Vice President to ascend to the Presidency since Martin van Buren in 1837, but he was also only the second American President to serve a full term without party control in either chamber of Congress. Nevertheless, President Bush signed into law, among other things, the Americans with Disabilities Act and the Clean Air Act--landmark civil rights and environmental legislation. He also successfully fought for and negotiated the North American Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA).

*As is always the tradition,
the Monmouth College Pipes and Drums lead the processional onto Wallace Hall Plaza.*

*It was an absolutely glorious day for the graduating class of 2000.
And even though security was tight surrounding the appearance of President Bush, a record crowd of alumni, friends, family, and community people turned out for the festivities.*

Accompanying President Bush to Monmouth College was First Lady Barbara Bush.

With diploma firmly in hand, why not break out a few bubbles.

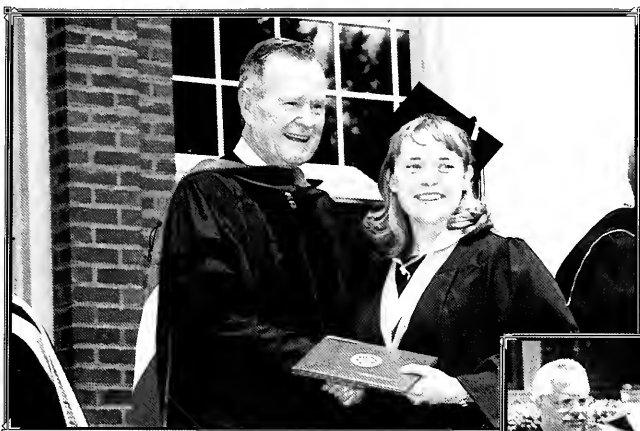

Matthew S. Carl '01, the Lincoln Laureate, gives the Farewell to the College.

The Conferring of Degrees

Points of Light

The Honorable George W. Bush

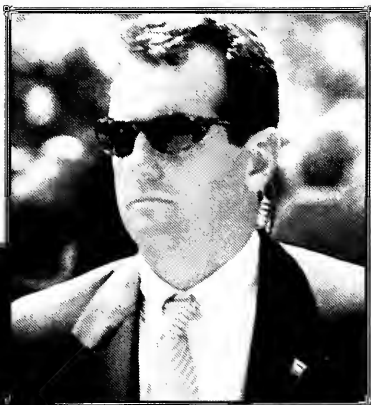

41st President of the United States

The Monmouth College Class of 2000.

*Waiting for Kenny, who is now an alumnus of

*"Oh, golly, she figured

I do?"*

"Hey, Mister, are you a Secret Service Agent?"

In Remembrance of...

Bobby Woll 1911-1999

On Saturday, August 29, 1999, a Monmouth College legend died.

Professor of physical education emeritus Robert George Woll, 88, died of an apparent heart attack at his home in Monmouth.

Woll, who retired in 1976 after 50 years as a student, athlete, teacher, and coach at MC, was known, loved, and respected by generations of alumni as well as current students.

During his 40 years on the physical education faculty, he coached every intercollegiate sport except wrestling, and was part of nearly 1,000 Fighting Scot victories. The MC athletic field which he developed and tended for decades was named in his honor in 1980.

With his success in sports as an undergraduate, his number has been the only number retired at Monmouth College.

Even though the man stood at only 5'9" and weighed 129 pounds, his impact on Monmouth sports history weighed in much higher. Bobby Woll stunned crowds at a Monmouth-Knox game where he scored two touchdowns, with one being a national record at the time--93 yards. As a coach he also had a good record against Knox, with a 27-7 record in all sports combined. When many look back at Monmouth College, his name seems to stand out more than others. He was the hometown boy who became the hometown hero. As we look ahead to the future, we take a look into the past and wonder: Who will be the next Bobby Woll?

*The staff of the Ravelings 200 yearbook
dedicates this book to Bobby Woll, a 20th Century legend at Monmouth College.*
